

Sinai Health System (SHS) & University Health Network (UHN) Fellowship in Airways Disease

The SHS/UHN Fellowship in Airways Disease provides $70,000 in salary support for national or international trainees to undertake advanced clinical training and academic development in Airways Disease.

This one-year fellowship includes outpatient clinics in asthma and airways disease across SHS and UHN sites as well as a breadth of clinical (eg. pulmonary rehabilitation, bronchiectasis, advanced symptom management), research and quality improvement opportunities that can be customized to the recipient's goals and interests. Approximately 50% of time will be allocated to clinical activities and 50% to scholarly activities.

Applicants can be internal (University of Toronto) or external, national or international. Priority is given to Canadian applicants. Applicants must have MD degree and have completed postgraduate specialty training in Respiratory Medicine, and be eligible for educational licensure in Ontario. The fellowship will start in July 2025, although an earlier start date may be arranged subject to supervisor approval. The fellowship will be accredited by the University of Toronto.

Application Deadline is October 1.
